

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Allocation information indicative of optical elements corresponding to various kinds of observation methods allocated to respective operation buttons and
5 their arrangement states is stored in a non-volatile memory, the allocation information allocated to the manipulated operation button is read from the non-volatile memory, and the optical elements are arranged in respective optical paths of an observation
10 optical system and an illumination optical system in accordance with the allocation information.